

Innovating the wheat community through the RDA services and outputs

13-14 July, Athens, Greece

About the event

The Wheat Community Datathon focuses on getting researchers and other stakeholders acquainted with the data formats, services, protocols and needs of the wheat community. The first day will feature presentations about the various services the wheat group is using, get hold on sample data, as well as the services and outputs the RDA community has produced. In the second day of the event, the participants will have the opportunity to participate in a hands-on session (a laptop will be required) that will involve the use of RDA services and their application together with external related services on the relevant data.

Find out about the fascinating challenges in wheat farming and agriculture, get your hands on relevant datasets and services. Innovate, present your ideas or prototypes for services and win a prize.
