We believe that

"the node activities will be a significant step in raising awareness of the current European and global data management practices and tools on the national level. An important task of acting as a node is to engage a wide range of stakeholders and facilitate discussions among them."

Research Data Management: Awareness Raising and Support

We aim

to act as a team of experts who represent different institutions and fields of activity and will be ready to promote and disseminate the outputs and recommendations developed by the RDA to raise awareness and provide support in data management in the national context, also, through the RDA, inform the international community on the national status quo and needs.
